

Berger To Open Burger Stand

Barry Berger, Student Government President, well known for his brilliant evasion and circumvention of irrelevant topics, has announced that he is resigning his position as President to open a food shop near the school to be known as the "Berger Burger Stand."

In a prepared statement, Mr. Berger asserted: "those of you who know that my prime interest has always been in frying: students, faculty, or burgers." "I believe I'd be happier in this job than any other I have ever held."

Berger, a Home Economics major, indicated that "this is the type of job in which I have always been interested."

Student leaders were surprised at the move. Stanley Luboff, a close friend of Mr. Berger's, asserted that: "We will all miss Barry's brilliant leadership. I have no doubt that he will receive an award!"

Steve Ornstein, a prominent SG executive announced that: "We will all miss Barry. Considering that BCC student reacting to news of Mr. Berger's retirement.

Barry no longer feels that we need his leadership, I see no reason for SG to continue. I'm packing my portfolio and going home to study grammar."

BCC Administrators were also puzzled by the move: "Mr. Berger has always been available to me for advice," remarked Morris Meister, BCC President. He continued, "I don't know what I'll do without Mr. Berger."

Faculty Demonstration Via Cab, Limousine

One hundred and seventy BCC faculty members journeyed to Albany by themselves on March 31 to protest Governor Rockefeller's proposed veto of the McKeon bill, which called for a pay hike for all faculty teaching at Community Colleges in the Bronx.

$20,000 was appropriated immediately by BCC Inc.'s Executive Committee, at an emergency meeting. The faculty, led by President Meister, entered the 117 limousines hired for the trip and began the police escorted ride to Albany. The limousines were equipped with desks, typewriters, and a Muzak system, to inspire the faculty to write letters.

Passing through Newberg, the procession ran into a traffic jam, caused by several hundred students from BCC on the "In Between Intersession Weekend Trip to the Poconos," led by Dave Greenberg.

Leaving the limousines, the entire group then hailed a cab. Cramped but determined, the instructors in the loaded cab continued on towards Albany, its occupants tired but still full of dedication and zeal.

Upon arrival in Albany, Miss Regina Pomeranz immediately utilized her vast experience and organized a picket line and sit in at the Governor's office, simultaneously and at the same time. Soon after, the group began chanting peace songs, learned from BCC students.

After demonstrating for an hour, the pickets were informed that the Governor was in Hawaii, addressing a Hula conference. Making a quick decision, the group started to head back toward New York.

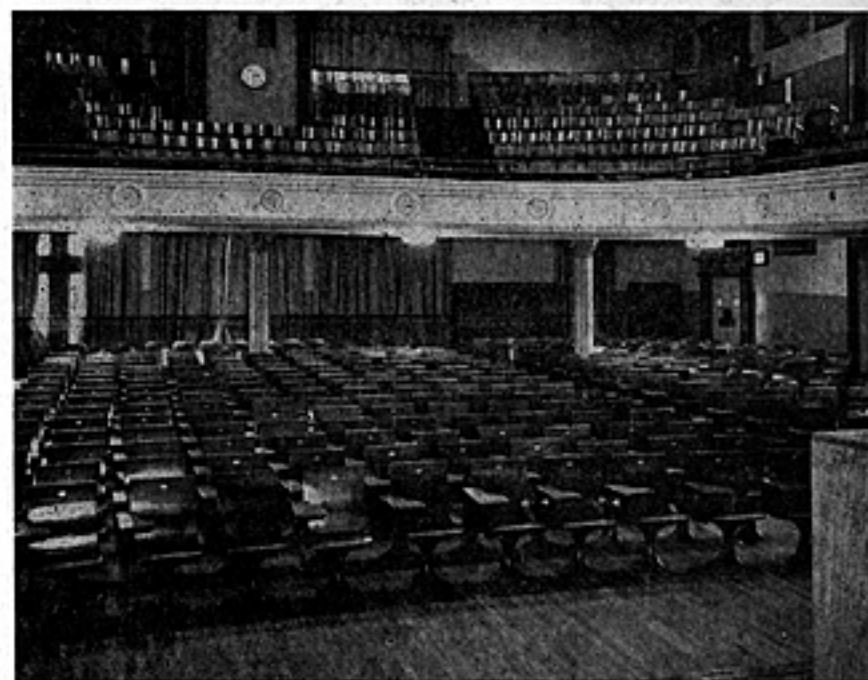

The next morning, a bit inebriated but still dedicated, the merry group proceeded to the Governor's mansion in New York. The faculty felt that this place was apropos, since it had been built with funds raised by taxing the adoption of orphans.

Meanwhile, back at BCC, the new president, Dr. Pollin was enjoying a quiet weekend with the Yearbook staff, whom he had prevented from going on the "In Between Trip."

Norman, the new Dean of Students, was spending the day preparing for the students to return from their trip. Room 5-22 was boarded up, and a special training room for student leaders was established. To be ready next week, the room comes complete with a rack, a bed of nails, two hooded henchmen, and a burning cross. Asserted the Dean: "I have decided to lay down the law to the students who compose the bulk of America's subversive organization. This will be the end of such groups as Student Government, the Young Democrats, and Gamma Iota Gamma.

Dr. Pollin was overheard as stating: "We are going to change the whole school around. Up till now, it has been absurd!"

Fall Splinters Staff; Bruised & Injured

Formerly a center of activity, the Communicator office is now empty and barren.

by Sal Mineo

The staff of the Communicator is being revamped, because of several serious accidents. True to expectations, the anxious forboding of our former Editor, easily seen in his comment: "Why did I have to take over on the thirteenth volume?" has come true.

During a spat with his girlfriend, an expert in judo, karate, savate, and wrestling, Lawrence H. Berlow was thrown down three flights of stairs. While on this sudden and unexpected trip, Mr. Berlow requested that the "Boy Wonder," Gerry Gianutsos, immediately assume the leadership of the failing paper.

"Boy Wonder" or "The Golden Greek," as he is sometimes called, used the enormous power of his office to draw $4000 out of the Communicator treasury and took a plane to his homeland.

This new crisis was handled, temporarily, when Mike Kennedy, power playing former News Editor, took over the helm. He was immediately assassinated by a misguided John Bircher for his alleged anti-semitism and his instrumental work in destroying the film "Judgment at Nuremberg." Other rumors stated that Mr. Kennedy had been an Arab in disguise.

Alane Wolfson, "Wolfie," former member of the defunct Editorial Board then seized control and became Editor-in-Chief. Soon after assuming leadership, the name of the paper was changed to The Commune, because Wolfie couldn't spell. BCC students, further antagonized by Wolfie's changing of "The River Alph" to "River Alane," stoned her to death. Seeing his chance, Byrne Blumenstein, the mild mannered protege of Dr. Pollin, seized power.

The name of the paper again changed, this time to The Daily Bagle of Genesis and Exodus. Blumenstein, a former editor of Genesis and a Sal Mineo fan soon bit the dust when faculty advisor Chester Studios registered an official protest with the office of the Dean.

Neil Tabot, finding it took little or no time to foul up the ads, soon moved up from Business Manager to Editor. But, not wishing to become an authority symbol, Tabot ran away with Berlow's old girl friend, Barbara M. Siegel and became a sex symbol, much to the pleasure of Features Editor, Regina Pomeranz. Miss Siegel promised to return "maybe someday."

Mr. Common Man (MCM), Lawrence Pittinger, was next in line because of his "Award of the Cool" in the first issue of the term. The Staff, now bragging that they belonged to New York's dullest newspaper, soon got Pittinger fired from his new position by Able Abe Tauber, newly appointed Faculty Advisor. The same pull which Sal Mineo had used to get Tauber his appointment was again activated for Mr. Pittinger, who is now a custard pie on the Soupy Sales Show where he delivers a five second deodorant commercial.

The next period of leadership, known historically as "The Age of the Longhairs," saw Mike Bobryk and Evan Reilly split the top position. However, during one of the staff's many sit-ins at the UN, both men

Awards Presented

Ten annual awards for distinguished service to Bronx Community College during the past year were distributed on February 29, 1965 by Morris Meister, BCC President. The Awards Committee's press release stated that this year's theme was "service to school and learning."

Marion Stringham, BCC Student Government leader, received the Teddy Roosevelt Leadership Award for her brilliant ability in filling out, in multiplicate, petty cash vouchers.

The annual award of the Student Interests Committee went to Mr. Tom Finnegan, for keeping students in school longer and thus providing trained leaders to student government.

The first annual Con Edison Award goes to the Business Office, the staff of which is reported to have truly conned Edison.

The Oxford University Award for the teaching of James Joyce, T. S. Eliot, William Faulkner, and Emily Dickinson goes to Miss Regina Pomeranz, who successfully established a minimum of five gestalt phallic symbols in each of the major works of these writers.

Steve Ornstein received the William Jennings Bryan Award for public speaking, for his "rousing speech" in front of the Student Government Senate, in defense of tuition.

A special award for nihilistic existentialism was awarded to Mrs. Eleanor Harder for creating the mythical personality of an "Anthony Meluso."

Distinguished letter copying award was granted to "Able" Abe Tauber, BCC SG executive secretary for mailing a bill form to 8 million residents of New York City.

The editorial accuracy award was given to Ira Grann, Editor of Student Newsletter, for successfully libelling five different administrators in five separate editorials.

A special award for "Student Friendship" was given to Norman, who has volunteered to earn his pay for at least one day's work some time during the next decade.

Retirement

We are sad that this issue of Communicator carries the news of the retirements of Joseph Berman and Barry Berger, Fiscal Officer and SG President, respectively.

Both of these gentlemen have, in the short time that BCC has been in existence, proven their value to the educational setup of this college.

Mr. Berger is known for his fast spur of the moment witticisms, Mr. Berman for his many conferences with any and all students passing within fifty feet of his office.

Both gentlemen have made lasting marks upon the college. We wish them luck in their next job, and hope they are successful.

Recognition

The Communicator is proud to announce recognition of the Evening Session Council as a well functioning organ of BCC. We congratulate evening SG for the work which they have done in the past, and look forward to further night activities. We would appreciate it, however, if someone could prove to us the existence of Anthony Meluso, who is rumored to be the president.

Housecleaning

As our lead story indicates, the Communicator is in a state closely approximating chaos. We hope that the student body and all those who read this issue will bear with us until we get organized. At present, an effort is being made to draft Jacob C. Sweeney for the job of editor.

Bruised & Injured were arrested, thrown into the toms, and haven't been heard from since.

Ronald Lautmann, formerly a Christ symbol in Franny and Zooey, attempted to fill the job editor but soon found that his image, already tainted by his emotional instabilities and his ties with the Boy Scouts of America, would not allow him to function properly.

Ira Grann, free wheeling and dealing Editor of Barry Berger's anti-minority publication, The Semitic Newsletter, stepped into the vacant position for a few days. Unfortunately, Grann was bumped off by our blundering photographer, Leon Lazarus, who saved the staff from minority control and the college from Berger's scheme to control the student body, faculty and administration.

College Clippings

by Larry Pittinger

THE POST-TIME of Raceway College at Yonkers announces the hiring of a member of the BCC faculty. Prof. John Furst will join a staff of five computers on the pari-mutual computing staff. An administration official at the college said of the new appointment, "We don't know exactly what Prof. Furst will be doing yet, but we're sure he'll do a good job."

The student voice of the Las Vegas College of Strip-Tease reports that it will accept transfer students from BCC beginning with the Fall Semester. Their student newspaper, THE OBSERVER, announces that BCC was given accreditation on the basis of their Laurels Weekend. "This is the first time a community college has been given accreditation. We are sure that BCC will realize the responsibilities that this entails and meet this challenge with the same vigor that they have shown in the past." Another first for BCC.

The Ill-Eagle, a kosher Nostra Syndicate paper of the Bronx, boasts that all members of its present staff are former members of the BCC Communicator. "With the recent addition of Rita Varela to our hallowed staff we are now able to publish a serious weekly. Miss Varela will handle our local politics page. This entails news stories about honest cops, human interest stories showing the other side of loan sharks and sports stories on the number runners races."

Aqueous College of Brighton Beach tells of the trials and triumphs of students in their Polar Bear Club. "The Iceman Cometh" a story in the most recent edition of the WATER WHEEL explained that members of the club must report to the beach weekly despite any inclement weather. "Members usually report weekly rather than weekly. They engage in such nonsensical frivolities as drinking coffee and sitting around and talking." Professor Wally Surrox, the adviser, inferred that the members are getting softer. "It just ain't the same. I remember the good old days of the beer parties and chicken fights and drownings and all and it just ain't the same."

The student press at State Teachers College at Ossining, THE BLACKBOARD JOURNAL, conferred their Teacher-Of-The-Month-Award on Soupy Sales. "We believe that this award is well deserved. A recent Nelson rating showed that Mr. Sales' show rated higher than either College Bowl or Alumni Fun. Therefore we conclude that his show is watched by more college students than the other two shows. Obviously the typical college student is conscientious as far as allotting TV time, so that there must be a wealth of higher education type knowledge involved in this program. We hope the show will continue in its endeavor to enlighten the leaders of tomorrow."

The MEDICAL EXAMINER of Saratoga Veterinarian College consented to admit a female applicant to its School of Tree Surgery. "Suffrage has reached an all time high with this achievement. Women no longer have to accept subservient positions in this man's world. A woman no longer has to toil tedious hours in the kitchen. She can think as well as a man, work as well as a man and learn to stand on the subway."

Voice of Xanadu:

ON NOTHING

by Lawrence H. Berlow

The topic of nothing being such an enormous one, one is faced with the stupendous task of deciding precisely where in the total nihilistic scheme of things one wishes to begin. Perhaps it would be best to begin at the beginning, making, of course, the obvious assumption that there is a beginning.

When I first considered the issue as one for serious probing to present to the student body at large, the first fact which occurred to me was that there was practically always something in the mind of all true scholars, and before an issue could even be approached, attempts must be made to eradicate such intellectual predilections from the minds of my reading audience, the BCC intelligentsia, so to speak.

Finding myself at an utter loss for means through which to work, a brief respite was obviously called for, during which time, my faculties could again place themselves in a position where they could be conjured up into a strong enough position from which to attack the problem.

Serendipitously enough, at the very same time that I had begun to concentrate on the elimination of all cerebral processes from my mind, a gentleman blundered into my office and informed me that there were absolutely no students outside the campus of our institution of higher learning. Seeing the chance to observe first hand the very subject upon which I had been contemplating, I immediately proceeded outside the campus grounds, where I found that the fellow's report had been not only truthful, but pregnant with the very germinal ideas from which spring deep philosophical considerations.

The immense quiet and calm which was before me was indeed the very essence, the beginning, as it were, of the seeds of nothingness in this great society of ours. Joyfully observing the bereft area, I immediately seized upon the one object at hand, a tree, and chose it as a further focal point for intellectual stimulus.

Finding, unfortunately, that there were no ideas forthcoming, my next step was one which should be obvious to those of you who are of the way. I simply ignored the nothingness surrounding me, filling it, in my mind of course, with a grand and lofty silence, terrible and awesome.

Perhaps it would be best if I proceeded no further, so as to not alarm those of you who are unprepared for the deep involvement which a study of nothingness involves. So be it. But, first, a word of caution to those who wish to become initiates . . . you must establish a definition from which to base your ideas. Following, is mine:

Nothingness may often be defined as the absence of everything. Truthful though this may be, its basic simplicity gives the lie to its underlying meaningful layer of malfeasance. Nothingness is actually the reified portion of that which we, in our meretricious glory, choose to call reality. Thus, were we to objectify that which we can easily see is a matter of subjectivism, that is everything, we would be left with the true essence: nothing.

The study of the subject requires much time, effort, and scientific training. To the young, it represents a new path of life, a new way of approaching the dreariness of totality through cerebral loquacity. And, to the old, the essential elements are consistently residual: nothing.

The River Alph

by Mike Kennedy

Having read "The Voice of," the column above, and being so inspired by the consequences of it, I decided to dwell upon the same topic, although not in the same abstract sesquipedalianistic manner.

Realizing the presence of Mr. Berlow's vague egotisticularity and personal need of being respected, I proceed with some amount of trepidation. But, nevertheless, let us begin our journey on the path toward concrete nothingness.

Nothingness can be represented concretely on only one level; The present, but may contain many instances of emptiness on that level. It cannot represent the past or the future, for as Kahlil Gibran said, "Yet the timeless in you is aware of life's timelessness. And knows that yesterday is but today's memory and tomorrow is today's dream."

The present is the only qualification of concrete nothingness, for one can do nothing in a group, whether organized or chaotic, as well as by oneself. One can also do nothing well-or poorly, humorously or morbidly, quickly or slowly, etc.

But let us get off the track of making concrete nothingness abstract by giving realistic examples. The following are some:

Nothingness is watching a Beatle movie.
Nothingness is trying to think during an exam.
Nothingness is looking at Soupy Sales.
Nothingness is sitting in an Economics Class.
Nothingness is attending an Executive Council meeting.
Nothingness is being appointed to a Committee.
Nothingness is being appointed to a Committee.
Nothingness is being appointed to a Committee.
Nothingness is when you're with the right girl but you have no place to go.
Nothingness is trying to rationalize a mistake.
Nothingness is saying that Selma is a publicity stunt.
Nothingness is Mr. Berman getting a report from Sam specifying how many windows were left open by the students at the Leadership Conference.
Nothingness is not cutting classes for an entire term.
Nothingness is sitting at a typewriter and trying to write a column on nothingness.

Student Cut Move Begun

by Parry Nold

Smoking in classrooms will be permitted next term according to Dr. Sidney Silverman, Dean of Administration.

Informed sources indicated yesterday that the new rule, designed to cut total enrollment at BCC, is expected to show results within two years. This recent move by the administration, one of a series which may eventually eliminate Hygiene and Physical Education BCC, is oriented toward the newly stated college policy: "Smaller classes, larger learning."

Abraham Tauber, Dean of Faculty, contested that; "If it were up to me I would meet personally with each and every student. If this plan is successful, I might still do it."

In line with this recent policy decision, the BCC cafeteria has announced that in the future they will serve only starchy foods, being extremely careful to avoid vitamin K.

Dr. Silverman has also announced plans to prefill all student activities rooms with cigar smoke. He also plans to remove, from every office, all washing facilities.

Other plans in the making include gym courses in the faculty elevator and shortcircuiting all electric typewriters.

Berman Gives Up

Joseph Berman, BCC Inc. treasurer, announced recently that he was retiring; he had been unable to fulfill his job because of the lack of work materials.

The problem started, according to Mr. Berman, when he needed a paper clip in order to send a note to Barry Berger, BCC Dean of Students: "The first thing I did was to ask my secretary. I was sent to Miss Stringham's office to get a request for funds form. Since she was not in, I walked down to the Record's Office, in the hope of being able to borrow a form.

"I was told that before I could borrow a form, I would have to have a quadruplicate statement signed both by myself and the Dean of Faculty.

Giving up there, I went into the Record's Office, where I was severely chastised for not having a bursar's or I.D. card.

"I was sent to the Business Office where I was forced to pay $2.00 for a new I.D. After paying, I was informed that I would receive it on May 24.

"Still without a card, I was told that confirmation on status would have to come from the Liberal Arts Advisor. Professor Williams told me that the only person who could help me was Ray Levine, Secretary at the Dean of Student's Office. The best that Mrs. Levine could do was bend a hairpin. I quit."

Barry Berger Ousted

March 17, 1965—President of the Student Council, Barry Berger, was carried out of office today by the unanimous vote of the Communicator's new "A Cleaner College Is Up To You," committee. The Communicator has in the past tried to have student participation in the proper functioning of the Student Government, and today the Communicator Staff took action itself. Mr. Berger was reported to have mentioned that he was expecting to be let down, but this is only hearsay since the four reporters present had their hands full at the time and therefore could not write down his statement.

Upon witnessing the proceedings, Mr. Ray Finkel, head of the Student Inquiry Committee, stated, after composing himself, "Don't anybody move till I have a chance to investigate this."

Seeing that the President had been removed from office, the staff then interviewed the I.O.C. Rep. Mr. Ornstein who flatly denied the charges that the Student Government was controlled by a dynasty, consisting of the I.O.C. Rep. a secretary who just happens to take the minutes for ten major committees, and Steve Simon, one of the leaders of the recent fights for free tuition. Ornstein's statement was "If he was a relative of mine do you think I would have told him he couldn't ride to the rally with me and Barry."

In other news this month, rumors that the Student Government Office had been chosen by the army as a bomb testing area, were quelled today by Mr. Berger's statement, "The Student Government Office isn't even fit for that."

When Mr. Brooks was asked if he had heard of a plot to steal the entire Audio-Lab, he commented, "Why? In the condition it's in, there's very little worth taking anyway!" We don't feel Mr. Brooks should be so modest.

In student lounge news this month there was talk of a new Student Government proposal to leave the television on through the "Soupy Sales Show" Why not! We definitely feel that the cultural level of the Student Government should be raised.

A joint quote from Steve Ornstein and Ray Finkel, to the effect that Barry Berger would be the first astronaut in their one way space probe proved false today when the pair asserted that their original statement was, "Barry Berger is just taking up space."

Reports that Fordham University had raided our Student Nurses' dorms were described as false by the dorm's security guard. After their investigation, the guards mentioned they had been satisfied. The girls seemed relieved. Reports that Fordham University had been raided by our Student Nurses also proved false. However, the slides have agreed to meet at a neutral spot, like the Laurels, to discuss further relations.

Finally, the Physical Education department today announced the opening of a new course numbered GH 9A. This course will discuss the practical uses of GH9 and will stress class demonstrations and full student participation. We recommend this course be made a prerequisite to LW1 (Laurels Weekend one.)

Mogulization

"Mass Mogulization Day," the day when over 4000 students will be inducted in BCC's leading fraternity, Mass Moguls Inc., was recently announced by Barry Berger, Secretary to the Dean of Students, Dr. Friedrich Von Lapisardi.

Taking four hours, the ceremony is completely secret, known only to members of MMI. At the conclusion of the induction, an award will be given to Marion Stringham, Editor-in-Chief of FRIENDS, official publication of the school's Business Office.

A protest was filed with the Dean of Student's Office by Norman, who has warned that if he is not inducted, he will take away 4000 ID cards on the day of the induction. Barry Berger, BCC President, has informed this reporter that he will step down from his office if Norman is mogulized.

MMI, one of BCC's fastest growing organizations, holds various affairs throughout the year. Plans are in the making to appoint Pam Cushing official MMI necker checker.

New BCC Production

"Little Egypt and her Big Sphinx, or, Man or Woman?" will be this semester's performance of the Play Production Club, under the direction of Norman. The play, a historical skit, deals with the riddle of the Sphinx.

Miss Egypt feels that by stripping the riddle of all of its obscurity, the bare truth will be found. Originally employed as a department store mannikin, Miss Egypt was mistaken for one of the store dummies. Play producer, Henry J. Pushy passed by while Miss Egypt was being disrobed, and immediately decided to take advantage of the many advantages of what he thought was "modern plastic technology."

Mr. Pushy's production calls for Miss Egypt to be buried in 2 tons of M&M candy, but rehearsal is being held up while technology workers are developing a method to melt the candy.

All suggestions are being considered, including that of the director: "The only way to solve this problem is to take away her ID card!"

In our last issue, we promised a member of the administration. The gent above may not be an administrator, but he thinks he is.

B.B. Baby Testing 1, 2,...

Last week it was announced that the student government was adding a House of Representatives to the Assembly and Council. This is the first step in a program of expanding the bureaucracy of student government. Just what the house will do has not yet been decided, but a higher up in the student government has stated "The creation of the House was motivated by the need to place as many students as possible in the government." The official failed to state if this was also the purpose of the Council and the Assembly. "We feel that the way to get more students interested in their government is to give them a position in it. Aside from this, if I need change of a dime I have to promise an office to get it," the official continued.

At the moment, Mrs. 'G' is the Speaker of the House, and Stanley Luboff and Steve Ornstein have both announced that they will run "for some kind of office" next term. Norman, of BCC's custodial staff, allegedly has announced that if they do, he will resign as bouncer and will tear up the ID cards of all candidates.

Anyone interested in running for a seat in the House, in twenty-five words or less . .

Despite the denials of Barry Berger, rumors persist that the Student Government office, 5-22, has been condemned by a team of army officers, and will be used as a weapons testing area.

The army had been looking for an area in which to test a new series of high powered bombs, and settled upon the SG office upon receiving confirmation of the fact that the high powers were usually bombed.

Another rumor sweeping the entire campus asserts that 5-22 will be used for the testing of a ballistics apparatus designed to handle pies, crackpots, and other items. There is a strong belief that the SG officers now in command will take over this field, having been well trained in former years.

Reports that a large blockhouse has been located in the SG office have proven false. Research shows that the original communications said "blockheads."

Alarmed by the rumors, and desiring more space, Steve Minsky, SG President, has announced plans to move headquarters to the Valley of the Jolly Green Giant.

LEE LEAVES

by Mike Chu

Rumors were circulated today stating that Tom Lee, President of the Newman Club, was resigning to become a member of the newly formed Hillel Society. Irv Kamsler, who is leading the campaign to have Hillel become the number one club in the school, said, "Tom is an imaginative person as well as a great leader. We need people like him. He'll fit in well with our team."

Mr. Lee, when confronted with this rumor, refused to comment. But in an exclusive interview with Tom's girl friend, Mary McCarthy, famous authoress, we found out that Tom had been in deep thought for the past several weeks. Mary said, "Ever since Brotherhood Week he's been a changed person." The talk given by Rabbi Grann during the rally in the Auditorium inspired him."

Dr. McCulloch, when informed said, "If Tom does that I won't let him go to Washington. I seriously doubt if there are Shrines there that would appeal to someone of Semitic beliefs."

If Mr. Lee retires, he will have to give up his free pass to the Fordham University Library. Mr. Kamsler was confident that this crisis would have no effect on Tom's decision. "I can always get him a pass to the Yeshiva Library, which is just as good as Fordham's."

Mr. Berger was elated by the move. "It's about time we started recruiting some of the leaders of the Catholic Community of the school. If we want to continue our control of Student Government, we must find a way to either encompass or destroy our opposition. This seems like a very good start. Perhaps Rabbi Grann will start working on Mike Kennedy next."

Byrne's Bloomers

It's been quite a week for BCC in the world of sports. Last week, Governor Rockefeller awarded Wilt 'The Stilt' Chamberlain a $500 basketball scholarship to BCC. It has been decided that Wilt will be starting out on the second string, because of 1.9999 index and the lack of openings in our fantastic first string. We were unable to obtain a comment from coach Sam Navaro. Reports are that he was spending the day crying.

Tuesday it was announced that Prof. Steuerman will be handling the Varsity Push-Up Team at the Winter Olympics, at the BCC pool next week. Anyone interested, don't call us—we'll call you.

An all time attendance record was set at last Saturday's swim meet—a total of four spectators! The highlight of the event was Mr. Wong instructing Dean McGrath in the use of the kickboard. The high dive event, awarded to BCC, was later forfeited when one of the judges remembered that there is no board in the BCC pool, where the meet was being held. Reports are that the Student Council Inquiry Committee is being called in.

This Sunday's 'Finger Bowl' game between Army and BCC's undefeated football squads should prove to be an historic event. Though BCC's team is favored, a few details seem to be creating some last minute problems. The Department is still trying to locate both a field for the team to practice on and a place for the big game. At the moment, the Nursing Center gym is being looked into. Mrs. Altman has lined up four more games for her girls to play: UCLA, Harvard, Notre Dame, and P.S. 91.

Ask Aunt Penelope

Dear Aunt Penelope,

When I first entered this school I believed that I would meet many boys and girls, happy and gay. So far, I've met only boys. What do you think?

/s/ Bewildered

Dear Bewildered,

A recent survey taken from the unused 1861 preregistration forms show that your answer lies in the Department of Chemical Technology and Pre-Pharmacy, where there are three girls to every 1.257 boys (a total of 9.54 students are enrolled in the two curricula.

Aunt Penelope

Aunt Penelope,

What does someone have to do to gain recognition?

/s/ Mrs. Harder

Dear Mrs. Harder,

At the last meeting of the Evening SG, consensus was achieved on how to gain recognition. I quote, "Try Harder."

Aunt Penelope

Dear Aunt Penelope,

Who was Tiberius Gracchus?

/s/ Stan

Dear Stan,

I always thought it was something you ate between the anitpasta and the lasagna.

Aunt Penelope

Dear Aunt Penelope,

Every time I have to make a speech I get nervous and don't know what to do with my hands. What do you suggest?

Love,
Manny

Dear Manny,

Did you send me a letter signed "Bewildered"?

Ice Cream Added

Ice cream will be served to all students taking economics, hygiene, and language courses, starting next week, according to Clement M. Thompson, BCC Dean of Students.

Considered by most members of the faculty as "A new advance in motivational theory," the new system will give coffee ice cream to freshmen, black cherry to sophomores, vanilla to juniors, chocolate to seniors, and butterscotch to all visitors.

When the new plan was announced, members of the faculty were afraid that the course instructors would be offended. Asserted BCC president Morris Meister: "Well, so what? I always serve ice cream at my committee meetings. Of course, I'm not sure that I approve of the flavors, but it's a step in the right direction. I find the idea extremely refreshing. I may even take one or two courses myself."

Barry Berger, SG President, announced approval of the move, provided "the funds are okayed by SG. It is, after all, a student activity."

The business office is now accepting bids for the ice cream account.

Drug Film Teaches

by A. D. Diet

On Thursday, March 11, 1965, the Health Education Department sponsored an informative film on dope addiction. Many students who had not been on the "habit" received vital information on how to buy, make, and use heroin.

The star of this documentary, Marion Stringham, said: "I've put up with the dead heads in this school long enough. It's about time they come around to my way of thinking. After all, you've got to live a little."

Dr. A. B. Tauber, the Producer and Director of the film, remarked "It has been a long uphill fight. I have been proposing the use of this film for the past five years."

"This film is going to be a prerequisite for my GE-6 course. It helps to relax the students and gives them a feeling free of restraint when we discuss phallic and yonic symbolism."

"A great boon to my Anatomy Course" said Dr. White. "After we get everyone on dope we'll get more girls registered for my section. After all, it's the only course that students get paid for."

Student opinion was generally favorable; the only exception was the professional virgin club. The film was paid for by the Government, under Robert Kennedy's amendment to the Johnson Poverty Program.

Dear Forum 7:

How privileged we are, at this school, to have such an outstanding editor as Larry Berlow to run the Communicator. It is without exaggeration, and with no fear of contradiction, that I am able to say that Mr. Berlow is one of the better editors. He has done a marvelous job in putting out the fine and outstanding newspaper that he has, thus far strove to put out.

Bless you Mr. Berlow and may you keep up the good work.

Yours truly,

Barbara M. Siegel

Seniors Trounce Faculty Ballteam

BCC Seniors trounced the Faculty team by a score of 21-3 in the recent Senior-Faculty volleyball game. Soon after the match, several members of the team received notices from the Records Office, stating that they were ineligible to play in such games, as their names had been removed from the list of graduates.

All three of the faculty points were made by "Tiny Tom" Finnegan, newest member of the team. Students later protested that "Tiny" had called out a student's name and a cry of "F" each time that student received the ball. The protest was overruled by referee Morris Meister, special presidential advisor to Barry Berger, chairman of the Student Committee on Faculty Committees.

Mr. Berger, "beanball," scored the most points for the seniors, a total of six points, plus a bonus of three points for spiking two faculty members and a bystander, one Stanley Luboff. After the game, Mr. Berger asserted: "Considering the fact that the referee has ordered that I take Fundamentals of Physical Education over again, I might as well run for President of Student Government. Incumbent President, Marion Stringham, made no comment."

Other high scores were "Slow" Steve Minsky, and "Idle" Ira Grann. Steve Minsky announced soon after that he is suspending himself from all student activities until he passes Fundamentals of Basketweaving.

"Able" Abe Tauber, Faculty spokesman, announced after the game that he was asking for a rematch: "We don't object to playing volleyball with the kids, but when they spike our cokes with J & B before the game, we must protest. There is not a man on our team who drinks anything but Chivas Regal."

MM ON SWEATSHIRTS

Black and pink sweatshirts with a picture of Morris Meister, BCC President, will be on sale in the campus bookstore starting tomorrow. It will have a left profile of the president, and underneath will state simply: "MEISTER."

Following the precedent set by the now famous "Beethoven" sweatshirts, the bookstore will be selling them as part of a program to improve the image of Bronx Community.

Students have been demanding the shirts for years, according to the manager of the store, Miss Barbara Eisenberg: "BCC students think very highly of their president. We'd kinda like to help them, 'cause we're proud too."

If the sale of the sweatshirts is successful, the store hopes to sell shirts with pictures of other BCC dignitaries on them, including "Able Abe" Tauber, BCC SG Prexie, and Daniel S. McGrath, BCC's all around administrator.

When asked about the move, Pres. Meister made no comment; he only blushed.

BCC Announces 6 New Courses

Pending sufficient demand, the following courses will be offered next term to BCC students. All inquiries should be made to the Office of Student Poverty, which announced the new sections in their latest plea of insanity:

Dirty Politics 1—This course is given to all freshmen and super-seniors with no intentions of graduating. Power complex and interest in becoming a BMOC, prerequisite.

Student Government 01—Designed to fill the need for leaders to pack the newly created committees, chaired by political appointees. Being an 01 section, students get as much credit as the student government. Prerequisite—Dirty Politics 1.

Student Government 02—A follow-up course to SG01, with emphasis on parliamentary procedure. This course is as much needed as SG01, which is needed as much as SG.

Student Publications 1—An advanced course, not for the squeamish, it is designed specifically for those unable to enter, overthrow, or outbid Student Government. Laboratory Practice in law suits, slander, union suits, cake throwing, black painting, and other sordid bits of insanity.

Laurels Weekend 1—This course replaces the now banned Concord Weekend 1. Students are required to bring their own tear gas bombs and masks for the final, and alcohol for the laboratory work. Fee—$40. Prerequisites: SG01, 02, SP1, $40, and an extremely open mind.

Student Publications 2—This course is open to all surviving SP1. Students are invited to secretary's homes, Christmas parties, and the President's office prior to award of a special dishonorable discharge from BCC. All applicants must sign loyalty oaths. Registration will be held two days after student government elections in BM4.
